Idle Money

There is idle money in every community—money not in use, not even safely deposited in a reliable bank. It is hid away, carried on the person, liable to loss by fire, theft, and many other causes. Idle money makes no one a cent. It's the money in circulation that stimulates business. The more money in circulation, the higher the prices and the lower the rates of interest. Bring your idle money to this bank, where it will be safe, and always subject to your check. It will help you, it will help us, it will help the community. Idle money is as useless to business as an idle man.
